Founded in Bangkok in 1992, McEvily & Collins has grown to become one of Thailand's premier law firms and one of the few local firms with combined Thai and foreign law expertise and management. The principals in the firm consist essentially of former partners and senior associates from large international firms. Thus, the firm is able to offer the same high standard of service as the large international law firms but at rates that are significantly reduced and more in line with local market conditions. Today, some 14 lawyers and 23 support staff serve a broad base of Thai and international clients across the entire business spectrum, with a very strong practice in the areas of corporate/commercial matters, real estate, banking and finance, dispute resolution, and energy, infrastructure and project development. The firm has full service offices in Bangkok, Phuket, and Koh Samui with native Thai, English, Dutch, and German language capabilities.

McEvily & Collins also enjoys a close working relationship with the Israeli law firm, Zell Goldberg & Co., with offices in Jerusalem and Tel Aviv.

Background

Since, Thailand has been an agricultural country, almost half of total population engaged in agriculture and had to depend all of its demand in chemical fertilizers through import. Farmers were still lacking on knowledge and principle of chemical fertilizer application suitable for specific Thai soils and crops. Consequently, the Ministry of Finance on behalf of the Royal Thai Government entered into the joint venture with Metro Co., Ltd., Sojitz Corporation (Formerly Nissho Iwai Corporation) and Central Glass Co., Ltd. of Japan, to establish Thai Central Chemical Company Limited on March 6, 1973 with initial registered capital of 120 million Baht, with an aim to improve agricultural yields and develop Thai agriculture as a whole.

In October 1991, Thai Central Chemical Co., Ltd.(TCCC), was officially listed on the Stock Exchange of Thailand (SET) with a registered capital of 700million Baht, and then became a public company in 1992 with its registered capital increased to 2 billion Baht.

At present, the two factories of the Company located at Phra Samut Jedee District, Samut Prakan Province and at Nakhon Luang, Phra Nakhon Sri Ayutthaya Province , enabled to produce same standard high quality chemical fertilizers as those imported. Main nutrients of TCCC's chemical fertilizer production consisted of nitrogen,phosphate, potassium with the supplement nutrients of magnesium, sulphur, boron etc., which mixed together contributing in healthy plants which could give high yields both in quantity and quality. These factories have been equipped with the total annual production capacity of 1.2 million metric tons.
